Use some counters and a dice to play the game with at least one other person. The question cards should be placed on the table face down. The answer card should also be placed face down.

Start at square 1, roll the dice and move your counter that number of squares.

If you land on a snake’s head, you must slide down it, unless you can escape by answering a question.

If you land on a square with a red Q, you must take a question card and answer the question – another player will check on the answer card to see if you get it right. If you get it right, you can do what it says in the square – have a bonus roll, move two squares, go up a ladder or avoid going down a snake.
